

IT'S A "STANDARD" LIE!

WE SHALL SEE IF THE BULLETIN'S ANANIAS DISOWNS THE BASE FALSEHOOD!

THE LIE.

Saturday's Mayville Bulletin.

"The Republican party believes in the use of both gold and silver as standard money, and condemns the present Democratic Administration in its efforts to demonetize silver."

The above is a plank from the Republican National platform in 1888. Quite different it is from the platform Mark Hanna and Wall street forced into the present g. o. p. platform.

The difference between the real and the false will readily be seen. The Bulletin not only forged the word "standard" into its lie, but it falsified it to make the falsehood more emphatic. Now, let's see if the Second Street Editor will try to palm the disreputable forgery off upon some one else after having commended it in his editorial column, or whether he will have the honesty to acknowledge the dirty offspring.

THE TRUTH.

Republican Platform of 1888.

"The Republican party is in favor of the use of both gold and silver as money, and condemns the policy of the Democratic Administration in its efforts to demonetize silver."

SATURDAY NIGHT'S OVATION

HON STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS AT THE OPERA-HOUSE.

It was a hummer From Hummerville!

Long before 7:30 Saturday night—the hour advertised for the appearance of Hon. Stephen A. Douglas—every available space in Washington Opera-house was taken up, no less than two hundred persons occupying seats on the stage, many of the immense audience being ladies.

A conservative estimate of the crowd in the building will place the number at 1,300, while many more were obliged to deny themselves the pleasure of hearing the distinguished speaker for lack of accommodation.

Beyond peradventure, it was the most magnificent political demonstration seen in Mayville in many years—if indeed it ever had its equal.

The McKinley, Hobart and Pugh Clubs of the city, headed by the Mayville Band, paraded the streets prior to the speaking, and along the route there was marked enthusiasm, which had its culmination when Mr. Douglas appeared upon the stage and faced the largest audience ever gathered within the walls of the Opera-house.

Mr. Douglas was appropriately introduced by Judge A. A. Wadsworth, and stepping to the front he was greeted by a storm of cheers that for some seconds prevented him from speaking.

He did not, he said, intend to deal in dry statistics nor to use big words, but it was his purpose to present the issues of the day in such a plain, practical way as would appeal to the "horse sense" of the people.

And for more than an hour the distinguished gentleman fired such volleys of practical illustrations at his hearers that conviction was inevitable.

His witcidians were particularly effective, and at times the audience was convulsed with laughter.

Many of his comparisons were ludicrous in the extreme—made so by reason of the absurdity of the Free-silver propaganda upon which they were based.

His illustration of the "flat" theory so fondly embraced by the Populist tail of the present Democratic kite was both forceful and conclusive.

In short, the speech of Mr. Douglas will long remain a pleasant memory to every one who heard it.

Following the distinguished Illinoisan came Colonel B. F. Clayton of Iowa, a native of Nicholas county in this state, who spoke at some length, and it was after 10 o'clock when the meeting closed.

Loose clothes and downy cushions bring only a negative sort of comfort to the woman who is suffering with some disease or derangement of the organs distantly feminine. Some clothes and some positions make the pain and discomfort seem less. Perhaps the nerves are most affected and this in turn disturbs the digestion. Nothing will ever completely relieve but a radical cure. The start of so-called "female complaints" may be a very slight thing indeed. It may be that in the beginning some minor organic measures would cure the trouble. Certainly at this time a little bit of the right medicine would stop it. When the trouble becomes worse, it is harder to cure, but still it can be cured. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Remedy will positively cure any trouble of this character. It will be absolutely reliable upon it. Afforded relief to a woman whose natural modesty has kept her from consulting a physician. BALLENGER, Jeweler.

ABOUT THAT "CRIME!"

SENATOR SHERMAN GIVES A PLAIN STATEMENT.

MANSFIELD, O., Sept. 28, 1896.

Notwithstanding the indisputable proofs afforded by the proceedings of both Houses of Congress, as printed in The Congressional Record, Mr. Bryan and the speakers and newspaper supporters his continue to charge that the clause in the silver act of 1873, stopping the coinage of the silver dollar, was surreptitiously and clandestinely passed through Congress. I have never been able to see what motive could have existed for secrecy in this matter. On April 25th, 1870, when the bill was sent to the Committee on Finance by the Secretary of the Treasury, the silver dollar was worth $1.0112 in the markets of the world. Germany had not yet sold her silver, or adopted the gold standard. There was no indication whatever of the fall of silver, and no one could foresee that it was destined to rapidly decline in price. No one asked to have the dollar coined, and no one was opposed to its discontinuance.

But I will give facts to prove that there was no secrecy and not leave the matter to argument or inference. The bill on its face shows that its purpose was to revise all the laws relating to Mints and coinage. It was prepared in the Treasury Department and sent to the Senate Committee on Finance April 25th, 1870. Section 15 provided for coining silver half dollars, quarters, dimes and half dimes, and section 16 specifically declared that no coins should be issued from the Mint except those expressly mentioned. The names of these coins were designated, their weight and fineness fixed. Mr. John Jay Knox accompanied the bill with a letter, in which, under conspicuous large type headed reading, "The silver dollar, its discontinuance as a standard," he said:

"The coinage of the silver dollar piece, the history of which is hereby given, is discontinued in the proposed bill. It is by law the dollar unit, and assuming the value of gold to be 134 times that of silver, being about the mean ratio for the past six years, is worth in gold a premium of about 3 per cent. (its value being $1.0112), and intrinsically more than 7 per cent. premium in our other silver coins, its value thus being $1.0748."

"The present laws consequently authorize both a gold dollar unit and a silver dollar unit, differing from each other in intrinsic value. The present gold dollar piece is made the dollar unit in the proposed bill, and the silver dollar unit is discontinued."

This message was sent to us from the Treasury Department with the bill. Copies of the bill were sent to experts all over the country, asking their opinion, and answers were received and laid before Congress in printed form, in which the discontinuance of the silver dollar was thoroughly discussed. The bill was printed thirteen times and extra copies were printed for distribution. It was passed over, amended and debated almost as copiously as any measure ever considered in Congress, and no man in either House proposed to retain the old silver dollar. The fact that it was omitted from our coins was referred to in debate. In speaking of the discontinuance of this coin in the House Mr. Samuel Hooper of the House Coinage Committee stated that the silver dollar of 1873, by reason of its bullion or intrinsic value being greater than its nominal value, long since ceased to be a coin of circulation and is melted by manufacturers of silverware. It does not circulate now in commercial transactions with any country, and the convenience of these manufacturers in this respect can be better met by supplying small stamped bars of the same standard, avoiding the useless expense of coining the dollar for that purpose.

On May 3d, 1870, 500 additional copies of the report and the bill were ordered printed for the use of the Treasury Department to be distributed among experts on finance. The bill was printed upon paper with wide margins, leaving abundant room for experts to note their opinions, and transmitted to the different Mints and assay offices, to the First Controller, the Treasurer, the Solicitor, the First Auditor and other gentlemen known to be interested and learned in such subjects. Hon. James Pollock, Director of the Mint of Philadelphia; Robert Patterson, James Ross Snowden, Franklin Peale, Dr. H. R. Linderman, Mr. George F. Dunning, all studied the bill and sent their opinions to Mr. Knox, by whom they were transmitted to Congress. The proposal to discontinue the coinage of the silver dollar was referred to in all their comments on the bill, and with one or two exceptions, approved.

The bill was considered at length by the Finance Committee of the Senate and the Coinage Committee of the House during five different sessions and the debates upon the bill in the Senate filled 66 columns of The Globe and in the House 78 columns. The Secretary of the Treasury, in his annual reports of 1870, 1871 and 1872, called especial attention of Congress to it. In his report of 1873 he said: "I suggest such alterations as will prohibit the coinage of the silver dollar for circulation in this country," dwelling upon his reasons therefor. This bill became a law February 12th, nearly three years after its introduction.

There was not only nothing secret or surreptitious in the passage of the Act of 1873, but every step accompanying its origin, introduction, consideration and passage received as much publicity as could be given to a bill. But the silver dollar was out of circulation long before the law of 1873 was enacted. It was a thing of the past; lost to sight, conceived by Hamilton in 1792, suggested by Jefferson in 1806, practically demonetized by Benton and the men of 1834 under Andrew Jackson; ignored by two generations, except as a convenience for the exportation of silver bullion and called back to the mind of the present generation only because silver has fallen in price and is deemed more valuable in coin than as bullion. Never was a more unjust or unwarrantable charge made than that the Act of 1873 was passed secretly, by stealth and with the object of concealing any part of it from the public.

TWO LEADERS

Of the Gang of Highwaymen Who Have Been Terrorizing Cleveland in the Hands of the Authorities.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 28.—Sunday night the police revealed the identity of the two mysterious prisoners they have held at the Central station for the last 24 hours. They are Bert Kaler, alias George Stanley, and James Brown, alias Curtis, alias Watson, and are the leaders of the gang of highwaymen who have terrorized Cleveland during the last month. Both are well known crooks and have served time. They were caught head-on in the net, but the police kept the matter quiet in order to secure other members of the gang. Saturday night about 10 o'clock the two prisoners entered the saloon of William Irft on Sheriff street, covered the proprietor with revolvers, looted the cash drawer and then made the frightened man set up the drinks. A few minutes later they held up the saloon of James Keating and looted the cash drawer, set down at a table to drink. A porter slipped out and called the police. AN END.

The Great Miners' Strike at Leadville, Col., Settled.

The Men Decided to Return to Work at the Old Schedule Prices.

Provided Mine Owners Would Agree to Give Them Their Old Places—Outside of One or Two Mines the Old Men Will Be Taken Back.

LEADVILLE, Col., Sept. 28.—The great miners' strike which has kept Leadville in a turmoil for nearly two months and which resulted in the killing of five men last Monday morning and the subsequent placing of the city under martial law, is ended. A meeting of the strikers was held Saturday night under the supervision of the militia, and after a stormy session it was finally decided that the men return to work at the old schedule prices, providing the mine owners would agree to give them their old places. A committee of five was appointed to confer with the mine owners, and as it is generally believed that outside of the one or two mines that have started up with non union men, the old men will be taken back, no further trouble is expected.

The strike was the outcome of the organization of the miners by the Western Federation of Miners, and most every mine worker was in the union when their demands were made and refused. The union asked $3 a day for all classes of workmen, including surface and underground men. The owners declared they would not pay, and nearly all of them closed down, several even allowing the pumps to stop. The employees remained willing to continue paying the wages which had prevailed up to that time. Under that scale surface workers were paid only $2.50. Practically the only change the union demanded was the advance of the wages of this class of men to $3.

A CLEW To the Mysterious Murder Near Elizabeth, Pa., The Head and Bloody Clench Found.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 28.—On September 19, the vicinity of the village near Elizabeth, Pa., was thrown into great excitement by the finding in the Monongahela river of the headless body of a man who had evidently been murdered. A reward offered by the county commissioners stimulated research and many parties have been sent into the country to find the dead man's head or clothing. Sunday afternoon the bloody garments were found among some rocks in the river and a small mound nearby when opened, proved to be the burial place of the head, which is well preserved and is that of a man 45 or 50 years old, well formed, with gray eyes, dark hair and sandy chin whiskers, slightly streaked with gray. No one has been able to identify the victim of the crime, but it is thought a Pittsburgh tailor's label on his coat will lead to a clew.

The volunteers who escaped report that severe losses were inflicted upon the rebels.

THE KHEDEIV'S SCHEME For the Independence of Egypt—Cautiousness in England.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The Times Monday publishes a dispatch from Cairo saying it is currently stated in native circles that the khedive, who recently started on a tour of Europe, where he traveled incognito, took with him a draft of a scheme for the independence of Egypt. The draft was drawn at the khedive's own direction by native officials. It is added that the khedive, while in Paris, had an interview with M. Hanotaux, the French minister of foreign affairs, and that he was leaving the Times. The Times, in commenting on the dispatch, declares that there is foundation for the statements contained therein and that it cannot be denied that evidence exists of underhand attempts being made to thwart the British reform in Egypt and that these attempts will cause trouble unless they are checked. The khedive sailed from Trieste for Egypt Friday.

KENTUCKY SCHOOLS

Short of Money, and the October Warrant Will Secure Only About One-Half.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 28.—Superintendent of Public Instruction Davidson has issued the following circular of interest to every common-school teacher in Kentucky: "To County Superintendents: It is now evident that the treasurer will not be able to honor my warrant October 1 from more than 20 per cent. of the fund apportioned to the schools for the present year. This is due partly to the fact that many sheriffs have been slow in remitting to the auditor, and partly to the fact, as you are aware, that a large deficit in the fund of last year had to be met early in July from this year's fund."
